

LOVING WITHOUT SPOILING: How To Be Unpopular with Your Children

Keynote Speech by Nancy Samalin

In addition to discussing her fourth book, LOVING WITHOUT SPOILING, in which she reminds parents of the need to be willing to be unpopular with their children, Nancy will teach parents how to:

- Set limits without feeling guilty
- Avoid empty threats and explanations
- Stop bribing and gain credibility with their children
- Be firm with behavior – but permissive with feelings
- Make NO mean NO, not maybe

Instead of theory or generalizations. Nancy will provide practical skills that can be put into immediate action. By using concrete examples, stories, anecdotes and dialogs from actual parents delivered with Nancy's upbeat, humorous style, participants will gain the skills they need to raise compassionate, responsible, unspoiled children. Her talk is geared to parents of toddlers through teens.
